CASE REVIEW FORM-SECRETARY PROFESSIONS

DATE: 06/02/2017 CASE #: 2017-2415MC

ALLEGATIONS (from the original complaint):

C alleges that R crossed professional boundaries and violated patient confidentiality.

SUMMARY OF CASE (ex. Criminal Conviction Dates, Classification of Crime, Pleadings, etc):

The C is a social worker for DSHS. The C alleges that the R willfully betrayed the practitioner-patient privilege as recognized by law when the R discussed a patient's diagnosis and treatment plan with the patient's relatives while in the public lobby of a juvenile justice center. According to the C, the R allegedly recommended a family session be conducted with the patient's relatives while in the lobby.

Our investigator telephoned and interviewed the C who stated that DSHS did not conduct an investigation. The C was approximately seven feet in distance from the R when the C overheard the R discussing the patient's mental health diagnosis with approximately five of the patient's relatives while inside the juvenile justice center lobby. The patient was not present at the time.

The R stated that she did have a conversation with the patient's brother, Trevor. The R denied that she discussed the patient's treatment plan or any other details about the patient's therapy with Trevor.

The R did not recall that she had suggested a family session with the patient's family members. The R did speak with Trevor about dissociative identity disorders (DID) but did not mention the patient by name. The R was an associate mental health therapist who was new to the field.

GENERAL SUMMARY

Allegation:
A complaint was received against the Respondent alleging confidentiality and boundary violations. Specifically, Ms. Megan A. Hall, Social Worker, Child Protective Services (CPS), Department of Social and Health Services (DSHS), the Complainant, alleged that on February 21, 2017, the Respondent willfully betrayed the practitioner-patient privilege as recognized by law when the Respondent discussed 3 - Mental health information, Adults - Info... (Patient A's) diagnosis and treatment plan with Patient A's relatives while in the public lobby of the Denny Juvenile Justice Center (DJJC), Everett. The Respondent allegedly recommended a family session be conducted with Patient A's relatives while in the DJJC lobby.

The complaint was reviewed and forwarded for an investigation by the Office of Investigation and Inspection (OII) of the Department of Health (DOH). Evidence pages 1, 2-6.

Complainant Summary:
On March 14, 2017, the Complainant was mailed a Complainant Notification Letter. Evidence page 7.

On March 21, 2017, Investigator Krause telephoned and interviewed the Complainant who provided additional information, which was summarized as follows. The DSHS did not conduct an investigation regarding the complaint allegations. On February 21, 2017, the Complainant was approximately seven feet in distance from the Respondent when the Complainant overheard the Respondent discussing Patient A's mental health diagnosis with approximately five of Patient A's relatives, not further identified (NFI), while inside the DJJC lobby. Patient A was not present while the Respondent discussed Patient A's diagnosis with her relatives. The Respondent's practice location was identified as Northwest Family Life (NWFL), Seattle. See Memo to File for complete details regarding the Complainant's interview. Evidence page 8.

Investigation Summary:

Subpoena Service

On March 29, 2017, Investigator Krause faxed a subpoena to the Custodian of Records, NWFL. The original subpoena is attached. An Affidavit of Service was prepared. Evidence pages 14, 15, 16. The subpoena requested Patient A's treatment and billing records.

On March 29, 2017, Investigator Krause received a telephone call from Ms. Nancy Murphy, Executive Director, NWFL, who advised that she had received the subpoena via a fax, and that the Respondent was an independent contractor who was the custodian of Patient A's treatment records.

On March 29, 2017, Investigator Krause emailed Ms. Holly E. Lynch, the Respondent's attorney, a subpoena for Patient A's treatment records. On March 29, 2017, Investigator Krause received an email from the Respondent's attorney who acknowledged receipt of the subpoena. The original subpoena is attached. An Affidavit of Service was prepared. Evidence pages 17, 18, 19.

On April 14, 2017, Investigator Krause received an email from Ms. Elizabeth E. Gibson who provided a letter dated April 14, 2017 from the Respondent's attorney, and the subpoenaed treatment records for Patient A. On April 19, 2017, Investigator Krause replied to Ms. Gibson's email. A copy of the email correspondence is attached. Evidence page 20.

On April 18, 2017, the subpoenaed documents, which were identical to those received as attached documents in Ms. Gibson's email from April 14, 2017, were received in the mail. Evidence pages 21-31. These documents were reviewed and characterized as follows:

- Original cover letter dated April 14, 2017 from the Respondent's attorney to Investigator Krause (Evidence page 21)
- Patient A's treatment records (Evidence pages 22-31)

A review of the Respondent's attorney's cover letter revealed that no billing records were available (Evidence page 21).

Ms. Pommert is a mental health therapist for my client 3 - Mental health information... . When at the Denny Juvenile Justice Center for a shelter care hearing, I witnessed Ms. Pommert speaking with Ms. 3 - Mental heal... relatives about confidential information regarding 3 - Mental health infor... diagnosis, how this affects her life and her treatment plan. At first, Ms. Pommert stated that she wouldn't be able to speak to her treatment of 3 - Mental health infor... but as I sat and listened, she then began to tell the relatives details about 3 - Mental health inform... treatment, and suggest a family session there at the courthouse. This all occurred in the lobby of the courthouse, a very public place. In hearing her conversation, I was very concerned that Ms. Pommert was breaching 3 - Mental health infor... confidentiality, as well as crossing boundaries at involving 3 - Mental health infor... family, who Ms. Pommert readily admitted the mother is estranged from.

Re: Julene Pommert
Case # 2017-3000MC

Dear Mr. Krause:

I am writing in response to your March 28, 2017 letter about a conversation I had with my client 3 - Mental health information, Ad... brother Trevor on February 21, 2017, at the Denny Juvenile Justice Center. As explained below, the complaint you received misconstrues that brief conversation – I did not discuss 3 - Mental health informa... treatment plan or anything else she shared in therapy. Additionally, I am very surprised that anyone heard the conversation because no strangers were sitting near us and we were speaking quietly to one another. However, I understand and recognize that I should not have spoken to Trevor at all that day and I regret that someone passing by was able to hear anything at all that I said.

To provide you with some background, I have been seeing 3 - Mental health inf... in therapy for a little over two years. She has dissociative identity disorder ("DID"), which, as you can imagine, has impacted her relationships with others in her family, including her brother. 3 - Mental health inf... and I spent time in sessions talking about her interactions with her family and how she can communicate better with them. She has also talked about her experiences sharing her diagnosis with them and her feelings that her family does not understand it or her. Per 3 - Mental health inf..., she has been very open and honest with her family about her diagnosis because she wants and needs their support, which is something she has talked about at length with me.

On February 21, 2017, 3 - Mental health inf... and several members of her family were at the DJJC for a custody hearing related to 3 - Mental health inform... young daughter, who is currently in Trevor's custody. I was at the court as a support person for 3 - Mental health inf... at the request of her attorney.[1] Just prior to the hearing, while Ms. Dawson met privately with her attorney, I sat in the hallway outside the courtroom where there is a large seating area with many rows of seats. Trevor sat next to me and the next closest person to us was 3 - Mental health inform... brother-in-law. 3 - Mental health inform... sister was two rows over and was not aware of the conversation. Trevor struck up the conversation with me and talked about how hard it was for him to get along with his sister because he believed she was crazy and a liar and had treated family members poorly over the years.

[1] 3 - Mental health in... attorney asked if I would be willing to attend the hearing as a way of showing the judge that Ms. 3 - Mental ... was enrolled in therapy and committed to working on her mental health so she can be a better mother for her daughter.

People with DID are often accused of being "crazy" or of lying and I tried to use the moment as an opportunity to speak generally about the disorder to hopefully provide some psycho-education to Trevor. I talked about how we all dissociate at times, ranging from driving in a trance to being separated from some of our memories during times of trauma. I said that sometimes people cannot remember whether or not they have done or said things because they have dissociated them and that this could be true for his sister. He noted that he has also experienced dissociation and that he actually did wish to be on better terms with his sister. I did not provide Trevor any details about 3 - Mental health inform... symptoms, the information she provided in therapy, or anything specific to her or her treatment plan. In fact, we did not even use Ms. 3 - Mental healt... name while we were talking and just referred to her as Trevor's sister. It was a general, and short, conversation about DID.

I also do not recall saying that it would be good to have a family session—that is not something I am pushing for at this time. I may have agreed that a family session some time in the future may be a good idea, but I cannot say for sure.

In hindsight, I recognize that talking about DID, even in general, to Trevor was sharing information about 3 - Mental health info... – even if I did not talk about her specifically – because it made it pretty obvious that 3 - Mental health info... has DID.[2] 3 - Mental health infor... told me that her family knew about her diagnosis, but that did not mean I should have spoken with them about it, particularly in a public setting where other people could apparently overhear. At the time, I was trying to change the commonly-held perception that people with DID are "crazy," but it was not an appropriate setting and I regret having the conversation.

As you are aware, I am an associate mental health therapist and am new to the field. Because of that, I do whatever I can to increase my knowledge and to learn and grow as a therapist. For example, I have taken many hours of continuing education courses on DID and how to best treat people with the disorder. Additionally, although I have completed all of my required supervision hours, I still meet with my practice supervisor regularly. Prior to receiving your letter, I met with my supervisor once a month to once every other month and by phone and email in between in-person meetings, as needed.[3] I have recently increased those meetings to once a week with regular phone contact in between meetings. I also meet weekly with a consult group and recently starting meeting weekly with my paid practice consultant.[4] I previously met with my practice consultant every other week, but now see him weekly as well.

I have spoken at length with both my practice consultant and my supervisor about this situation and have used it as a learning experience. In addition to increasing my time with them, I also recently enrolled in a four-module ethics course that has a section on client confidentiality. I understand and agree that I should have been more aware of my surroundings at the DJJC and more importantly, should not have interacted with Trevor without 3 - Mental health informa... written [2] Soon after the conversation with Trevor, I told 3 - Mental health... about the conversation and she is aware of what was said.

[3] I also send her regular reports regarding my clients' progresses and challenges, which we then discuss in our meetings, phone calls, and/or emails.

[4] I have regularly consulted about 3 - Mental health... with my consult group, supervisor, and consultant as she is a complicated case.

permission to speak with him. I have taken the complaint against me very seriously and have learned from my error. I know that I will not make a similar mistake in the future.

Please let me know if I can provide any additional information. I would like to help you and the Department in any way that I can as you complete your investigation.

Sincerely,

Julene Pommert, LMHCA
